Fall 2013 • Edition 1

A Publication of Riverview Health Centre

Who Ran?
Riverview runners take part in Manitoba Marathon.

Legacy of Love
Terminally ill father gets opportunity to wish happiness to son and bride.

Puppy Love
As the Centre’s new safety dog, Odin definitely knows a trick or two!

2013 Riverview Health Centre Foundation Events:
Good EATS, Good GOLF and Good CYCLING

More on the Foundation Pages
6 Cycle on Life and Centre Stage Gala Donors
7 Two New Board Members: Ralph Fyfe and Joy Cramer Bring Experience and Volunteerism to Riverview
2 & 8 In Honour of & In Memory of Donors Keep on Giving
7 Riverview Charity Golf Classic Donors

Cycle on Life Scores a Touchdown!

Gala Dinner: Laughter is the Best Medicine

Golf, Summer & Riverview
Wedding in Worship Centre Offers Legacy of Love for Groom’s Father

In usual circumstances, when a man hopes to marry his beloved, he might consider asking her father for permission to propose. The situation was far from usual for a Winnipeg couple who married earlier this year in Riverview Health Centre’s Worship Centre. In their case, the groom’s father asked the bride-to-be if she would marry his son.

Groom Ken Palmason was thrilled when Erika Csak said “yes” without a moment’s hesitation. Ken’s father, Sigmar Palmason, then a patient on Riverview’s Palliative Care Unit, was just as happy. With not long to live, his son’s engagement and subsequent whirlwind wedding gave him a special kind of peace he would have the opportunity to witness Ken’s marriage to a beautiful and genuine daughter-in-law before he passed away.

“Dad loved Erika – they had a loving, and fun relationship,” says Ken. “We knew he wouldn't be with us much longer, and it was important for him to know that I’d be okay after he was gone.”

The “proposal” from Sigmar occurred on Thursday, January 10, and it was decided that the wedding would take place three days later at the Worship Centre on Sunday, January 13. In that short time, Ken and Erika managed to contact the Centre’s chaplains, schedule the venue, obtain a licence, book a marriage commissioner, buy wedding bands, find two witnesses, and last but not least, figure out what to wear.

With 31 close friends and family attending on short notice (including a few who were informed of the ceremony), the wedding turned out to be a touching and meaningful event. It celebrated the beginning of a long partnership between Ken and Erika, and it gave a proud father one last chance to honour a son and his bride with a short speech, which he accomplished despite his weakened health.

“It was the most beautiful thing to hear, knowing that his journey was ending while ours was just starting,” says Ken. Sigmar passed away less than three weeks later on February 1, with Ken and Erika by his side. His stay at Riverview had only lasted a couple of months, but the couple was struck by the wonderful care, which they describe as full of dignity and comfort. The availability of the Worship Centre was a godsend for them as we well as it provided a sanctuary for one last graceful and meaningful ceremony to share with their beloved patriarch.

Riverview Staff SHINE – A Light on Values

If you could pick five values that, to you, best guide your decisions and actions at work, what would they be? Would your list include accountability? How about equality and harmony? Would you consider creativity and recognition to be highly important? The list of possibilities goes on and on.

Through an initiative called SHINE, employees at Riverview Health Centre recently had the opportunity to take part in this exercise: they were asked to identify five “value” words, from a list of over 60, that describe the things they stand for. This fall, the SHINE team will unveil the top five values most identified by employees at the Centre.

SHINE stands for “Share, Help, Inspire, Navigate, Excel” and it involves harnessing the energies of all staff to work towards the common good. It came about when two staff members in Health Information and Communication Services (HICS) – Debbie Svaling and Ilia Murray – started talking about getting employees involved at the grass roots level on the topic of personal values.

“We wanted to find a way to make Riverview even more than it already is, and we wanted to do this by getting people to think about their values and how these values can be lived in the workplace,” explains Svaling, Manager of HICS. “SHINE is a written, public declaration of intention. SHINE is a complement to our corporate value statement. It is easy to understand and easy to remember.”

SHINE got started last fall when Murray and Svaling solicited volunteers for the SHINE Team. About 40 rose to the challenge, and these people became the pioneers of the project.

“We did not want to use a top down approach – we wanted people to want to initiate with the initiative,” says Murray, a health information management professional. “SHINE considers that it is the job of leaders to make better leaders, not to make followers.”

The SHINE team then invited all employees to attend one of 12 short sessions held in the Thomas Sill Auditorium. Participants of the sessions were asked to choose their values and to place their words in a ballot box. “It was an exciting thought to know that we had SHINE team set up based on the findings. All employees at Riverview Health Centre have the chance to take part in this exercise: they were asked to identify five values and to place their words in a ballot box.”

“We wanted to find a way to make Riverview even more than it already is, and we wanted to do this by getting people to think about their values and how these values can be lived in the workplace,” explains Svaling.

“In memory of Charles Bronson”

Marianne Wagner

Veronica Andrew

Alien Macnab

Joanne Murphy

Stephen & Jane Anema

Brian Armstrong

Shealyn & Tannis Hendry

John Aitchison

Avril Brown

Ruth & Kenneth Booth

Judith Campbell

Gowenstich

Brian Wevers

Olga Balzer

Michael Balzer

Verna Bartlett

Betty Boiteau

David Bates

Bill Bedard

Robert Bernhardt

Dave & Barbara Crow

Heather & Jeff

Kathryn & Michael

Evelyn & Bruce

Sergio Bezerra

Stefan & Joanne Branch

Christine Bluk

Ann-Gerri

Lilian Galdes

Lynn Galdes

Lloyd Bizett

Gary & Don Ogg

Joseph Blanchard

Patricia Blanchard

Bud Blanchard

Two special donors who significantly contributed to the“Legacy of Love” legacy project were...
Cathy Williams-Stewart
SHIPPER-RECEIVER, MATERIEL MANAGEMENT

In Cathy Williams-Stewart’s opinion, Riverview Health Centre is “the place to be.” And she should know: she’s been a loyal employee of the Centre for the past 40 years.

As someone who has loved her work all that time, it’s not surprising that Williams-Stewart hasn’t missed many days over the years. However, early in her career, she got pneumonia and had to call in sick. Her supervisor’s response cemented her loyalty to the Centre.

“She came by with groceries andmedication—three times!” says Williams-Stewart, who at the time was a recent immigrant from Trinidad and Tobago.

“I was so surprised that someone would take care of me like that. I was a single woman with no family in Winnipeg, and I realized I had found a place I could call home. I never forgot that kindness.”

Now married with two grown girls — who both work at Riverview — Williams-Stewart still enjoys the camaraderie of her current co-workers and recalls many friendships from the past. She has worked in several different capacities over the years, starting as a nurse’s aide in 1973, then moving to other positions, including ward clerk, transportation assistant, and rehabilitation assistant.

“I moved around as positions came up so I could accept new challenges,” she explains.

Today, she is the Centre’s shipper-receiver, a job she does well because of her excellent organizational skills. “Cathy is diligent and particular about her job, and she’s a lot of fun, too,” says Nancy Steski of Materiel Management, who has known her for 26 years.

“I was a single woman with no family in Winnipeg, and I realized I had found a place I could call home.”

Williams-Stewart has given back to the community in many ways. She is an Honorary Life Member of the local CUPE 500, and has served in several other capacities over the years, starting as a nurse’s aide in 1973, then moving to other positions, including ward clerk, transportation assistant, and rehabilitation assistant.

“Cathy is diligent and particular about her job, and she’s a lot of fun, too,” says Nancy Steski of Materiel Management, who has known her for 26 years.

“I truly believe that what you put into a job, you’ll get out of it.”

Fruehm, who was one of Bjornson’s nominators, doesn’t stop there with her praise. “I would want her as the physiotherapist treating my family members because I see daily the quality of care she provides. She does not take shortcuts, she keeps her word and she has a high ethical standard.”

This year, 12 Riverview staff members were nominated (see below) for the Quality Champion Award, which recognizes an employee who provides exemplary on-the-job service, including teamwork, consistency and a positive attitude in their day-to-day work. The award is in memory of Lori Yaworsky, the Support Services Manager who passed away in 2002 after many years of dedicated service.

Bjornson accepted her award at a gala dinner held in February. All nominees received accolades and a certificate of appreciation.

I truly believe that what you put into a job, you’ll get out of it.

Merrilynne Bjornson
PHYSIOTHERAPIST, DAY HOSPITAL

Merrilynne Bjornson doesn’t do volunteer work. Here is the reason why this conscientious, caring and positive-minded physiotherapist does not fulfill any philanthropic obligations outside of her workplace: she decided long ago in her career that any available “extra” hours would be spent with the patients on her case load. To that end, she works considerably overtime — without expecting anything in return — assisting rehabilitation patients at Riverview Health Centre’s Day Hospital.

That generous attitude is only one of the many positive traits that helped Bjornson become the recipient of the recent Lori Yaworsky Quality Champion Award. “Merrilynne goes over and beyond Riverview’s expectations for providing quality care to our clients,” says Carrie Fruehm, Patient Care Manager at the Day Hospital.

“I truly believe that what you put into a job, you’ll get out of it.”

Fruehm, who was one of Bjornson’s nominators, doesn’t stop there with her praise. “I would want her as the physiotherapist treating my family members because I see daily the quality of care she provides. She does not take shortcuts, she keeps her word and she has a high ethical standard.”

This year, 12 Riverview staff members were nominated (see below) for the Quality Champion Award, which recognizes an employee who provides exemplary on-the-job service, including teamwork, consistency and a positive attitude in their day-to-day work. The award is in memory of Lori Yaworsky, the Support Services Manager who passed away in 2002 after many years of dedicated service.

Bjornson accepted her award at a gala dinner held in February. All nominees received accolades and a certificate of appreciation.

I truly believe that what you put into a job, you’ll get out of it.
Odin the Safety Dog Brings Puppy Love to Riverview

For a long time, Neil Armer wanted a dog. Little did he know that when his dream finally came true this summer, he’d be sharing his “best friend” with everyone at Riverview Health Centre. As the Centre’s Safety Coordinator, Armer was always intrigued with Riverview’s pet-friendly policy. He started wondering about the feasibility of obtaining a well-trained and good-natured dog that could become the “face of safety” for Riverview.

“I thought if we had a ‘safety dog, people would get to know him and he could become somewhat of a safety mascot,” says Armer. He explains that, as well as being a therapy animal that can visit with patients, a safety dog can also be trained in search and rescue. The idea was well received, and now everyone at the Centre is becoming familiar with Odin, Armer’s yellow Labrador Retriever. Odin was purchased from a well-respected breeder in Utah known for providing intelligent, teachable and social Labs with friendly, gentle personalities.

When Armer picked up Odin in early July, the pup was just four months old and had already undergone an intensive puppy-training course. One of Odin’s trainers had previously worked with the United States Navy training dolphins. Receiving training from such an expert gave Odin the skills to reliably respond to many commands.

That is just the beginning for this smart and lively puppy. “Labs have a great sense of smell and can find a trail that’s three or four days old,” says Armer, who regularly works on scent training with Odin. “Once trained, these dogs can find a lost person, come back to the trainer, then take the trainer back to the person.”

Armer says that, although a Code Yellow (missing person) occurs only rarely, a trained safety dog could become a vital tool in a successful search, especially in the winter. At other times, the dog can be a friendly visitor to brighten the lives of patients and staff alike. Eventually—after about two years—Odin will be trained and prepared to take his K-9 Provincial Search and Rescue Certification evaluation. If successful, Odin and Armer could be called to assist with search and rescue operations across the province.

Neil Armer and Odin: Once trained, a safety dog can find a lost person, come back to the trainer, then take the trainer back to the person.

Challenging the Defenders

There was some feverish competition at the Manitoba Marathon this year! The Riverview Rapids Defenders (RRD), which was the only relay team from the Centre entered in the 2012 Marathon, found themselves neck to neck in the June 16, 2013 event with a newly minted team, The Riverview Workers 2E; Jenna Vandurme-Wiens, RRC, Rec Facilitator 2E; Susanne Boyd, RRC, PT 4W.

Front Row: Carrie Fruehm, RRD, Manager Corporate Allied Health; Jo-Ann Cumming, RRC, Social Worker 2E; Jenna Vandurme-Wiens, RRC, Rec Facilitator 2E; Susanne Boyd, RRC, PT 4W.

Back Row: Neil Armer, RRD, Safety Coordinator, with Odin; Chris Edwards, RRC, Rec Facilitator 3W; Darby Cumming, RRC, Service Partner 2E; Glenn Fruehm, RRD, Daryl Perry, RRD, Chief Medical Officer.

Missing from photo: Ben Plett, RRD, PT, PCH.
INCOMING: Debbie Svaling – Feels Privileged

Debbie Svaling has come a long way in the last 21 years. Back then, she accepted her first job at Riverview Health Centre: a casual position as a health record technician. Today, she is the new Manager of Health Information and Communication Services. “It’s been quite a transition – there’s a lot to learn, but I have a capable team,” she says.

This new manager is enthusiastic when she talks about her staff members; she says they are exceptional, and she considers it a privilege to work with such good people. “It’s a wonderful environment here, and my staff are a great group of people. Many have worked here for years and are committed to Riverview. It is a special place, and if employees believe that, they will truly be able to make a difference.”

Svaling’s main focus right now is training the person who is taking over her previous position as Coordinator of Communication Services. Once that is accomplished, she plans to expand her knowledge of the health information side of the department. “My background and training are in health information management, but my career at Riverview evolved to include more of the communication responsibilities,” says Svaling. She’s looking forward to the day-to-day practices of health information. An important part of this service area is being responsive to the needs of the patients, residents and families. As well, the future of health information management includes a movement from paper-based systems to electronic ones, and Svaling foresees working with internal stakeholders and partners in the industry to coordinate updated systems and practices.

OUTGOING: Pat Zaborniak – A People Person

Pat Zaborniak, Riverview Health Centre’s recently retired manager of Health Information and Communication Services, covered a lot of ground during her 25-year career at the Centre. When she arrived in 1988, her title was “Medical Records Librarian” and she had a staff of three. When she retired in June, she managed 14 employees and had led a myriad of positive changes that will leave a legacy at Riverview and beyond.

With encouragement from the Centre’s medical administration, Zaborniak designed a new system that heightened communication with referring agencies. The result? Zaborniak’s department no longer simply kept medical records but was fully involved in the admitting process, with ties to many of the province’s referring agencies. The department eventually took over Enquiry Services and switchboard operations, so its moniker was changed to “Health Information and Communication Services” to better reflect the breadth of its responsibilities.

Zaborniak found a way to keep the focus on people. She considered her department to be the gateway to the Centre’s services, and she trained her staff to be welcoming. “When I started here, I was pleased to discover that the Centre’s philosophy is the new Manager of Health Information and Communication Services, Volunteer Services, Spiritual Care, Workplace Safety, the Staffing Office and the Home Care Office – to name a few. As if that wasn’t enough, she also oversaw all staff events, such as the Long Service Recognition events.

“Lynda was into every nook and cranny of Riverview,” recalls CEO Norman Kasian. “She demonstrated her abilities right from the start and we were fortunate to have her for as long as we did.”

In her final role as the Privacy Officer at Riverview Health Centre, Zaborniak found a way to keep the focus on privacy. “It was an honour to meet all employees to talk about how each one of us can make a difference,” she says.

The biggest challenge she faced was when the IRHA merged with the North East Health Authority. “It was a fabulous job, and I was responsible for many staff over a 26,000 square mile area,” she recalls. “I travelled and had to be efficient – it wasn’t just walking down the hall for a meeting.”

The biggest challenge she faced was when the IRHA merged with the North East Health Association. Zaborniak and her team didn’t know for six months who would stay on and who would lose their jobs. “I had to put on a brave face and try to reassure my staff when I was scared myself!”

When the opportunity came up at Riverview, Irwin did not hesitate. So far, she’s been busy settling in with what she calls a “great group of HR staff” and a wonderful management team. Her plan is to expand support to her managers, especially when dealing with challenging issues.

OUTGOING: Lynda Juskow – Diverse Background

When Lynda Juskow arrived at Riverview Health Centre in March 2003, it was to fill the position of Chief Human Resources Officer. That may sound like a fairly straightforward role, but in reality, Juskow’s managerial responsibilities covered a wide variety of areas in the Centre – Occupational Health, Education Services, Volunteer Services, Spiritual Care, Workplace Safety, the Staffing Office and the Home Care Office – to name a few. As if that weren’t enough, she also oversaw all staff events, such as the Long Service Recognition events.

“Lynda was into every nook and cranny of Riverview,” recalls CEO Norman Kasian. “She demonstrated her abilities right from the start and we were fortunate to have her for as long as we did.”

Juskow was able to manage her large portfolio because she came equipped with experience in many different areas of health care. She admits, though, that her nursing background was key to her success as a leader at Riverview. “I worked for 20 years in intensive care, and had several progressive managerial positions in nursing,” she explains. “This experience helped me to understand, from an insider’s perspective, how different areas of a hospital operate.”

She also recognizes that staff in all of her departments contributed to her success. “They are highly skilled, dedicated individuals who continuously provide excellence in service for their field.”

As her career progressed, Juskow became interested in human resources, so she went back to school for additional education. In 1991 she landed the job of Director of Human Resources at Concordia Hospital, a position she held until 1998. But Juskow didn’t stop there. In 1998, she began focusing on labour relations. She moved to the Labour Relations Secretariat – the bargaining arm of the Winnipeg Regional Health Authority. For the next four years she was a negotiator for various health care collective agreements, and she travelled regularly throughout Manitoba.

Considering this diverse background, it’s not hard to understand why Kasian continued to give Juskow increasing areas of responsibility. Coupled with her penchant for setting high standards and her collaborative method of leadership, she became known as a fair and compassionate senior executive who was able to expertly balance employees’ experiences with the needs of the organization, showing respect for all in the process.

In her background includes practicing both family law and labour law before moving to labour relations and human resources in the health care field. A recent position was Director of Human Resources for the Interlake Regional Health Authority. “It was a fabulous job, and I was responsible for many staff over a 26,000 square mile area,” she recalls. “I travelled and had to be efficient – it wasn’t just walking down the hall for a meeting.”

The biggest challenge she faced was when the IRHA merged with the North East Health Association. Juskow and her team didn’t know for six months who would stay on and who would lose their jobs. “I had to put on a brave face and try to reassure my staff when I was scared myself!”

When the opportunity came up at Riverview, Juskow didn’t hesitate. So far, she’s been busy settling in with what she calls a “great group of HR staff” and a wonderful management team. Her plan is to expand support to her managers, especially when dealing with challenging issues.

INCOMING: Dela Irwin – High Energy

Describing Dela Irwin as a “high energy kind of person” is an understatement. To illustrate, here’s an example from the life of Riverview Health Centre’s new Chief Human Resources Officer: when her now-adult children were ages three and five, Irwin went to law school full-time during the day while working full-time hours on evenings and weekends as a legal assistant. “I’d take the kids to day care on the bus on my way to school, their dad was home in the evenings when I worked, and it all worked out fine,” she says.

Life didn’t slow down much for Irwin as she juggled work with a busy family life. However, along the way she enjoyed a variety of opportunities that prepared her well for the job at Riverview, which she started in May.

Irwin’s background includes practicing both family law and labour law before moving to labour relations and human resources in the health care field. A recent position was Director of Human Resources for the Interlake Regional Health Authority. “It was a fabulous job, and I was responsible for many staff over a 26,000 square mile area,” she recalls. “I travelled and had to be efficient – it wasn’t just walking down the hall for a meeting.”

The biggest challenge she faced was when the IRHA merged with the North East Health Association. Irwin and her team didn’t know for six months who would stay on and who would lose their jobs. “I had to put on a brave face and try to reassure my staff when I was scared myself!”

When the opportunity came up at Riverview, Irwin didn’t hesitate. So far, she’s been busy settling in with what she calls a “great group of HR staff” and a wonderful management team. Her plan is to expand support to her managers, especially when dealing with challenging issues.

Irwin did not hesitate. So far, she’s been busy settling in with what she calls a “great group of HR staff” and a wonderful management team. Her plan is to expand support to her managers, especially when dealing with challenging issues.

Irwin’s background includes practicing both family law and labour law before moving to labour relations and human resources in the health care field. A recent position was Director of Human Resources for the Interlake Regional Health Authority. “It was a fabulous job, and I was responsible for many staff over a 26,000 square mile area,” she recalls. “I travelled and had to be efficient – it wasn’t just walking down the hall for a meeting.”

The biggest challenge she faced was when the IRHA merged with the North East Health Association. Irwin and her team didn’t know for six months who would stay on and who would lose their jobs. “I had to put on a brave face and try to reassure my staff when I was scared myself!”

When the opportunity came up at Riverview, Irwin didn’t hesitate. So far, she’s been busy settling in with what she calls a “great group of HR staff” and a wonderful management team. Her plan is to expand support to her managers, especially when dealing with challenging issues.
Cyclists in Riverview Health Centre Foundation’s 2013 Cycle on Life had an additional reason to participate in the June 9th event: they received the opportunity to rub shoulders (or, should we say, bump fenders) with several alumni members of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Riders could choose either a 24 km or a 70 km route, with a stop-off at the brand new Investors Group Field. Participants were among the first to enjoy a pre-season tour of the new facility, with the alumni players as their guides.

After the ride, everyone rendezvoused back at Riverview Health Centre for a barbecue brunch. In addition to random draws for prizes, riders were awarded $50 WOW gift certificates for each multiple of $500 they raised.

The 2013 Cycle on Life attracted the largest number of participants in its 15-year history, and over $100,000 was raised for the revitalization of the Centre’s two 30-bed units that are dedicated to the care of those with Alzheimer’s disease, other forms of dementia and those who display special needs behaviours.

It’s been known for a long time that it takes far fewer muscles to laugh than it does to frown. So why not relax, have fun and enjoy a few laughs with friends? That was the idea behind this year’s Centre Stage Gala, hosted by the Riverview Health Centre Foundation.

Planners chose the theme “Laughter is the Best Medicine,” then built the April 10th event, held at the Winnipeg Convention Centre, around the concept of fun.

Almost 500 Riverview supporters attended to enjoy a gourmet meal served by waiters dressed up as clowns, as well as a laugh-inducing after-dinner show by well-known comedian Derek Edwards. Emcee for the evening was Doug Speirs, as humour columnist with the Winnipeg Free Press, is no stranger to comedy.

Long-time Riverview supporter George Andrews had the honour of presenting Bob Sokalski with the Friends of Riverview Award. Sokalski is Vice-Chair of the Foundation and a lawyer with Hill Sokalski Walsh Tripper LLP. He is highly deserving of this award, which was created to honour an individual whose commitment to Riverview enriches the lives of the Centre’s patients and residents.

Gala guests were able to bid on a variety of desirable silent auction items, and a highlight of the evening was a live auction of three fantastic prizes led by auctioneer Bill Knight.

The Centre Stage Gala netted over $105,000. These funds will be used to enhance the Centre’s Special Care Needs units, which care for those with Alzheimer’s disease and other forms of dementia.
Meet Two New Board Members
Foundation Attracts Qualified, Caring Community Leaders

Ralph Fyfe has known about the work of the Riverview Health Centre Foundation Board for ages. His neighbour, Bob Sokalski, is a long-time Board Member and current Vice-Chair. He’s been hounding Fyfe for years to come “on board.” Fyfe was intrigued but, up until a year ago, simply didn’t have time in his busy schedule. Luckily for the Foundation, that schedule recently eased up a bit, and the Realtor® from St. Vital agreed to join Sokalski and his colleagues as a Foundation Board Member.

“I’ve been a Realtor® for 35 years, and I’ve always been involved in industry-related volunteer work,” says Fyfe, who works at Century 21 Bachman & Associates. Over his years in the business, his altruistic spirit landed him in numerous roles, such as President of WinnipegREALTORS®, President of the Manitoba Real Estate Association and Manitoba Regional Director of the Canadian Real Estate Association.

In addition to all of this, he has served as a volunteer with other organizations, including the Canadian Red Cross and the Kiwanis Club. “I was raised in a family that believes we all have a social responsibility to give back, and I enjoy taking on these commitments,” says Fyfe.

Now it is Riverview Health Centre’s turn to benefit from Fyfe’s generosity and knowledge. He has decided to start a new chapter so he can be active in other organizations. This time, when Bob Sokalski came calling, Fyfe was ready to say “yes.”

“I think the strengths of a board include the experience of the board members and their willingness to contribute,” he says. “I have completed my other commitments and am now ready to focus on Riverview.”

For Joy Cramer, supporting Riverview Health Centre is a family affair. The Riverview Health Centre Board Member convinced her 12-year-old son, Jacob, to participate with her in the 2013 Cycle on Life held in June. Jacob took the job seriously: he not only completed the 70-km route with his mother, but he raised $2,500 for the Centre.

“It’s not surprising that Cramer would pass on her altruistic spirit to her child. Currently in her second term on the Board, she has proven herself to be a leader of volunteers by chairing the Centre Stage Gala committee for two years.”

Cramer takes volunteering and her role as Board Member seriously. She is a graduate of the Directors Education Program offered through the Institute of Corporate Directors in Toronto. “This program provides insight into the workings of a board and helps participants become familiar with board governance,” she says.

Professionally, Cramer has long been involved in the area of community housing and is currently the Deputy Minister of Housing and Community Development for the Province of Manitoba. She has served on many related committees, such as the Poverty Reduction Council and the Co-operative Loans and Loans Guarantee Board.

Concern for her fellow Manitobans is a common thread in her experiences, so it was almost second nature for her to accept the Foundation Board position, on the recommendation of Bob Sokalski, the Board’s Vice-Chair.

“I was familiar with Riverview as I had toured the Palliative Care unit when my mother was ill with cancer,” she says. “I was impressed with the respectful, caring attitudes of the staff, so it was not hard to say ‘yes’ to Bob.”

Golf, Summer & Riverview: Three Things that Go Well Together

A hot summer day greeted 160 participants in the 11th Annual Riverview Charity Golf Classic held at Glendale Golf and Country Club on August 20. This special event got its start in 2003 when Frank Wade and Vince Boschman, both of RBC Dominion Securities, decided to raise money to support Riverview. Everyone enjoyed an afternoon of lunch, golf and snacks on the course, followed by dinner. Thanks to all participants and to our sponsors, the event netted $35,000 to help fund enhancements to the Centre’s Alzheimer’s, dementia and special behavioural needs units.

For information on next year’s event, contact Jon Ljungberg: 204-478-6220 or email Jon at jljungberg@rhc.mb.ca.

THANKS TO THE 2013 SPONSORS

| TITLE SPONSOR | Susan’s MS Research Fund |
| PRIZE SPONSOR | Hill Sokalski Walsh Tripper LLP |
| CART SPONSOR | Century 21 Bachman & Associates |
| MEAL SPONSOR | WOW Hospitality Concepts |
| WINE SPONSOR | Peller Estates & Associates |
| HOLE-IN-ONE SPONSOR | RBC Bank |
| GRANT SPONSOR | RBC Dominion Securities/ RBC Foundation |
| 18TH HOLE MARTINI SPONSOR | PMA Liquors |

Note: The above list includes all sponsors who contributed to this event.

Riverview Health Centre Foundation Attracts Qualified, Caring Community Leaders
Meet Two New Board Members
Ralph Fyfe has known about the work of the Riverview Health Centre Foundation Board for ages. His neighbour, Bob Sokalski, is a long-time Board Member and current Vice-Chair. He’s been hounding Fyfe for years to come “on board.” Fyfe was intrigued but, up until a year ago, simply didn’t have time in his busy schedule. Luckily for the Foundation, that schedule recently eased up a bit, and the Realtor® from St. Vital agreed to join Sokalski and his colleagues as a Foundation Board Member.

“I’ve been a Realtor® for 35 years, and I’ve always been involved in industry-related volunteer work,” says Fyfe, who works at Century 21 Bachman & Associates. Over his years in the business, his altruistic spirit landed him in numerous roles, such as President of WinnipegREALTORS®, President of the Manitoba Real Estate Association and Manitoba Regional Director of the Canadian Real Estate Association.

In addition to all of this, he has served as a volunteer with other organizations, including the Canadian Red Cross and the Kiwanis Club. “I was raised in a family that believes we all have a social responsibility to give back, and I enjoy taking on these commitments,” says Fyfe.

Now it is Riverview Health Centre’s turn to benefit from Fyfe’s generosity and knowledge. He has decided to start a new chapter so he can be active in other organizations. This time, when Bob Sokalski came calling, Fyfe was ready to say “yes.”

“I think the strengths of a board include the experience of the board members and their willingness to contribute,” he says. “I have completed my other commitments and am now ready to focus on Riverview.”

For Joy Cramer, supporting Riverview Health Centre is a family affair. The Riverview Health Centre Board Member convinced her 12-year-old son, Jacob, to participate with her in the 2013 Cycle on Life held in June. Jacob took the job seriously: he not only completed the 70-km route with his mother, but he raised $2,500 for the Centre.

“It’s not surprising that Cramer would pass on her altruistic spirit to her child. Currently in her second term on the Board, she has proven herself to be a leader of volunteers by chairing the Centre Stage Gala committee for two years.”

Cramer takes volunteering and her role as Board Member seriously. She is a graduate of the Directors Education Program offered through the Institute of Corporate Directors in Toronto. “This program provides insight into the workings of a board and helps participants become familiar with board governance,” she says.

Professionally, Cramer has long been involved in the area of community housing and is currently the Deputy Minister of Housing and Community Development for the Province of Manitoba. She has served on many related committees, such as the Poverty Reduction Council and the Co-operative Loans and Loans Guarantee Board.

Concern for her fellow Manitobans is a common thread in her experiences, so it was almost second nature for her to accept the Foundation Board position, on the recommendation of Bob Sokalski, the Board’s Vice-Chair.

“I was familiar with Riverview as I had toured the Palliative Care unit when my mother was ill with cancer,” she says. “I was impressed with the respectful, caring attitudes of the staff, so it was not hard to say ‘yes’ to Bob.”

Golf, Summer & Riverview: Three Things that Go Well Together

A hot summer day greeted 160 participants in the 11th Annual Riverview Charity Golf Classic held at Glendale Golf and Country Club on August 20. This special event got its start in 2003 when Frank Wade and Vince Boschman, both of RBC Dominion Securities, decided to raise money to support Riverview. Everyone enjoyed an afternoon of lunch, golf and snacks on the course, followed by dinner. Thanks to all participants and to our sponsors, the event netted $35,000 to help fund enhancements to the Centre’s Alzheimer’s, dementia and special behavioural needs units.

For information on next year’s event, contact Jon Ljungberg: 204-478-6220 or email Jon at jljungberg@rhc.mb.ca.

THANKS TO THE 2013 SPONSORS

| TITLE SPONSOR | Susan’s MS Research Fund |
| PRIZE SPONSOR | Hill Sokalski Walsh Tripper LLP |
| CART SPONSOR | Century 21 Bachman & Associates |
| MEAL SPONSOR | WOW Hospitality Concepts |
| WINE SPONSOR | Peller Estates & Associates |
| HOLE-IN-ONE SPONSOR | RBC Bank |
| GRANT SPONSOR | RBC Dominion Securities/ RBC Foundation |
| 18TH HOLE MARTINI SPONSOR | PMA Liquors |

Note: The above list includes all sponsors who contributed to this event.
This quarter as usual, the pretzel old lady’s pretzel stand and left. The two of them never spoke. This went on for a few years. He would never take a pretzel. Every day a young pretzels on a street

Joan Watson
John Puff
Shahla & Ron Finch
Linda Flood
Bonna Lovejoy
Harry Garelick & Terry Hartzenbuhl
Raymond Potratz
Judy Potratz
Frances & Dave Laid
Maurice & Dolores Romero
Shelby Ligon
Alanna Horman
Art Popovich
Sally & John Burchard
Carole Powell
Dr. Calvin Wilkins
Bob Eber
Gielke Productions
Villa Preimants
George & Nina Janssen
Mary Elizabeth Duff
Joy Cooper & Martin Reed
Judy Berezay
Judy Greba
Michael Dineen
David Dewar
T

This is a smiley face for the day and mail in the enclosed envelope or put a smile for the day on-line:

www.rfch.mb.ca

SMILE FOR THE DAY

A little old lady sold pretzels on a street corner for 25¢ each. Every day a young man would leave his office building at lunch time. As he passed her pretzel stand, he would leave her a quarter, but he would never take a pretzel.

This went on for a few years. The two of them never spoke.

One day, as the passed the old lady’s pretzel stand and left his quarter as usual, the pretzel woman spoke to him:

Sir, I appreciate your business. You are a good customer, but I have to tell you that the pretzel price has increased to 35¢.

Now it is your turn to make the Foundation smile. This is $35 rather than $25. Click the link today to donate to the Riverview Health Centre Foundation.

www.riverviewhealth.org

Thank You!